Mobility Service to Manage & Protect Mobile Devices

AccessMyLAN creates a productive and secure work environment for healthcare providers and their employees.

Due to the recent COVID-19 outbreak, today more than ever medical care workers are relying increasingly on smartphones and tablets to guide them to increased productivity and efficiency.

AccessMyLAN is a cloud-based service, giving IT administrators network-based visibility and control of mobile data to ensure that their employees can work productively and securely on any mobile device across both cellular and Wi-Fi networks.

Powerful management and protection features for a healthcare institution's mobile devices.

Increase Productivity of Mobile Healthcare Workers

Ensure that mobile devices are used for their intended purpose, reducing productivity loss from mobile devices being used for non-work activities. Policies are enforced across a mobile device fleet, empowering healthcare workers to deliver a better and more efficient care service.

Shield Devices from DDoS and Ransomware Attacks

Protects data in-transit across the network and shields SIM-based devices from attacks including DDoS, malware, phishing, ransomware and data leakage. Ability to assign a private static IP address to each hospital router, MiFi and connected medical device, strengthening the HDO's security and network security intelligence, providing zero-day defense by blocking malware and preventing access to malicious content at the network layer before it gets to your device.

Assist Compliance with Industry & Internal Regulations

Enforces internal governance controls by blocking access to inappropriate content and malware, protecting data on the mobile network against vulnerabilities before they can affect the device and compromise data. These governance capabilities also assist the HDO's mobility compliance initiatives with external industry regulations such HIPAA and GDPR.

How We Can Help:

Five Star Technology Group will work with any HDO to demonstrate how AccessMyLAN (AML) from AT&T can be tailored to your unique requirements. Not only will this offer immediately help your daily operations, but will allow you to have extra parameters in place during these uncertain times.
